

HILA SANDERS JOINS ALPHA OMEGA

Leader in post-trade technology welcomes industry expert

San Francisco, CA, May 6, 2015 – Alpha Omega Financial Systems, Inc., (“Alpha Omega”), an innovator in post-trade technology, announced today that Hila Sanders has joined the firm as managing director and head of account management. Hila will report to chief executive officer Kamal Duggirala, with a mandate to partner with clients to achieve their straight-through-processing and cost reduction goals in the post-trade process. Based in New York, she will also be a member of the firm’s executive team.

Hila comes to Alpha Omega from JPMorgan Chase & Co., where she was vice president and client relationship manager responsible for JPMorgan’s top-tier clients in global investment banking. During her tenure at JPMorgan, Hila spearheaded the successful implementation of their equities FIX 4.4 post-trade pilot program.

“Hila has played a prominent leadership role in the industry’s adoption of FIX-based post-trade. Her perspective, informed by her extensive experience in the deployment of customized portfolio and trading solutions, will be invaluable to our clients,” said Ignatius John, president of Alpha Omega.

Hila brings a wealth of experience in institutional finance to Alpha Omega, and throughout her career, has cultivated lasting client relationships and alliances to drive the adoption of new technologies and innovation. Prior to JPMorgan, Hila held several client facing roles at some of the world’s largest investment banks including Deutsche Bank Securities Inc., Credit Suisse and Goldman, Sachs & Co.
